

TRAGEDY SCENE TUESDAY NOON ON HIGHWAY 18

Hibbard Shepreau Loses Life and Companion Escapes
Slightly Injured

Hibbard Shepreau, Stevens Point, aged 56, a woodsman in the employ of the John Week Lumber company, was instantly killed at noon Tuesday when the automobile which he was driving left the concrete and turned end over into the ditch on highway 18 west of the city, breaking his neck.

Shepreau's companion in the car, Fred Nitz of Dancy, aged 32, a fellow woodsman, escaped with a cut on the top of the head and a general shaking up. His injuries are not serious.

Following the crash, Nitz attempted to arouse his companion, not realizing that he was dead. He then started out to get help but Coroner H. D. Boston arrived and took the body in charge, a passing motorist from Marshfield having brought news of the tragedy to the city in the meantime.

Shepreau, who has always made his home here, had been employed in the woods near Moon, Marathon county. He accompanied Nitz to Stevens Point Tuesday morning, coming down to get some working clothes which he had left here. The pair left town on their return trip to the lumber camp shortly before 12 o'clock. Nitz is the owner of the car and was driving.

When the concrete on No. 18 was reached, Shepreau asked his companion for permission to drive, asserting that he was familiar with the operation of the car, according to Nitz. The latter consented and the change was made. Shepreau taking the driver's seat. He had rounded the big curve in the concrete and having approached the long straight-of-way declared to Nitz that he would then "step on the gas a little."

The car suddenly swerved to the side of the highway and a moment later had crashed through two posts which line the road, turned end over end and finally came to a stop upside down. Nitz said after the accident that he believed he was unconscious for a few moments and that when he regained consciousness he looked around and saw Shepreau lying in the wreckage of the overturned machine, his hands still clutching the wheel. Nitz then attempted to arouse the man. G. B. Campbell of Marshfield, who arrived at the spot in his car a few moments later, brought word of Shepreau's death to the coroner here. An investigation was immediately begun by the sheriff's office and district attorney, with the assistance of the police department.

Alleged Liqueur Found
Officials who visited the scene found a pop bottle one-fourth full of alleged moonshine and also found broken pieces of another bottle. In a sworn statement to District Attorney B. J. Carpenter Tuesday afternoon noon Nitz said that he and Shepreau had been drinking. He said they had purchased the two bottles of liquor at Mosinee while enroute to Stevens Point and that they had consumed the contents of one bottle and part of the other up to the time they left Stevens Point when starting back to Moon. Nitz said the last drink was taken as they turned off from Central avenue to Superior avenue. It was then that Shepreau first asked to drive, but he was not allowed to do so until the concrete was reached. Nitz said that when Shepreau began to drive faster he remonstrated, telling his friend that he was driving too fast. According to Nitz, Shepreau replied that he was not going fast, pulling down the throttle to slow down the car but opening it up wide instead. A few seconds later the automobile ran amuck. Nitz said Tuesday afternoon that he realized that he had made a mistake in allowing Shepreau to drive.

Car Badly Wrecked
The wrecked automobile lies in the ditch six feet from the side of the concrete over which it was being driven. When the car turned end over end it snapped off two of the guide posts, and stopped with its radiator pointing in the direction from which it had been going. One wheel was broken off, the top demolished, one side crumpled in and the windshield broken.

Nitz received medical attention from a local doctor after having been brought to the city, and immediately afterward was taken to the district attorney's office where his sworn statements were taken down.

No Ill Effects—Operation Deem-

ed Unnecessary

Lucy Jane, the three and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Allen who accidentally swallowed a needle a week ago, may have the needle in her body the rest of life without suffering any ill effects.

That was the advice given the family by a Milwaukee specialist who was called here the latter part of last week to study her case. The needle has lodged near the intestines but is giving her no pain and the little girl is up and about, apparently in good health without suffering pain or discomfort.

The specialist stated that the needle might remain in the body for only a short time, or for many years. An operation is not believed necessary and if the victim of the unusual mishap continues to show no ill effects none will be performed.

GANG SPOTTED BY VILLAGE MEN WHO OPEN FIRE

Robbers Firing Return Volley Leap Into Car and Get Away

Shiocton, Wis., Nov. 7.—Two bandits were surprised while in the act of drilling into the vault of the Shiocton State bank here this morning, but escaped in an automobile amid a rain of shots from their pursuers.

Although posses were organized at once and a systematic search instituted in all parts of Outagamie county, the bandits had not been located shortly after ten o'clock this morning.

Second in Month

The raid was the second on the local bank within four weeks. A previous attempt was made on October 16, but it failed because of the presence of a large iron safe against the inner wall of the vault which blocked entry for the bandits, after they had blown a large hole in the vault.

The burglars, who were halted in their attempt this morning, had gained entrance to the building by forcing in the rear door and were working with an acetylene torch when discovered.

Fired on by Citizens

A citizen who lives across the street from the bank noticed the light of the torch and spread the alarm. Firing shots into the air, the man waited for the bandits to rush from the bank. They bolted through the door, rushing to a waiting automobile, and amid a reign of bullets, made their escape.

Telephone warnings were sent to all neighboring towns and in a few moments posses were organized in all parts of the county.

Torch Stolen

The torch which had been used by the bandits had been stolen at a local garage. They burst the handle off the vault door and were working on the hinges when discovered.

The attempted burglary here was the ninth attempt to rob banks in central Wisconsin within the past five weeks.

Boy Caught at Vocational School Go-

An attempt to pick the pockets of cloaks of students at the vocational school was frustrated late Monday afternoon, and two boys were later brought before Chief of Police John S. Hofsoos.

The boys are Victor Heck, 785 Michigan avenue, and Sylvester Pendlewski, Junction City. Heck, it is stated, was apprehended in the act of going through the pockets of girls' cloaks in the school. Confronted by Director G. J. Ehart of the school, it is declared, the boy dropped over $5 in change on the floor and ran down the stairway.

He was picked up by Officer Stanley Kosmoski in the company of Pendlewski, and the two were brought before Chief of Police John S. Hofsoos, where, it is stated, Heck confessed that he had rifled the pockets of the cloaks. All of the money was recovered. Pendlewski declared he knew nothing of the escapade, and that he was not with Heck when the latter went through the clothing in the school. Pendlewski was released and Heck given into the custody of his father, Nick Heck.

STOLEN MAIL POUCH IS FOUND IN WOODS

A rifled mail sack, apparently stolen from the Vesper railroad station on the night of August 23, after the 11:15 train had passed through, was found a few days ago by two men while hunting rabbits along the North Western tracks a mile north of the village. The pouch had been ripped open lengthwise and every letter had been opened. The thieves had apparently been searching only for money as several hundred dollars in checks and a money order were left untouched.

TAXATION RELIEF SEEN FOR NEIGHBORING COUNTY

A substantial reduction in taxes is seen in Wood county for next year. Instead of a half million dollar county tax, the county will probably raise only one-half or three-fifths of that amount. In spite of the demand for lower taxes there is said to be a continuous cry for improvements in the county and petitions are being circulated for various projects which would require expenditure of county funds.

Long Night Hours

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—The death toll at the Rellly mine has been unofficially fixed at 82, with 38 injured. Several of them so badly they may die. Sixty-five bodies have been recovered. Fifty-seven have been identified and it is believed 17 are still in the mine. The most authoritative figures show that 118 men entered the death mine yesterday morning. Three escaped uninjured. Of the eight bodies still unidentified it is believed many may never be recognized by relatives as they are so badly mutilated and burned that recognition is practically impossible.

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—Fifty-one bodies have been recovered from the Rellly mine, wrecked yesterday by an explosion, it was announced today as rescue workers continued to clear away debris. Fifty more bodies are believed to be lying in the ruins of the working shaft.

Little Hope For Best

Hope that survivors other than those rescued yesterday will be found has been practically abandoned. Thirty-one men, who were brought from the shaft suffering injuries, and four more dead than alive from poison gas were in hospitals.

Several first aid men also were recovering from exhaustion and gases.

Try to Conceal Facts

Mine company officials today still refused to give out the details of the explosion or make public a list of the employees in the workings at the time of the explosion.

As near as could be estimated, about 140 men were in the mine. Of these about 39 were rescued alive although badly injured. With 51 bodies recovered, men and women familiar with the size of the shifts worked at the place believe that at least 50 more dead will be found.

Rescue workers drove through the wreckage all night and brought out bodies. Thousands of persons, including wives and sweethearts of the victims, kept vigil at the shaft as a drizzling rain soaked the workers and watchers and made rescue efforts more difficult. Silence, save the sound of women sobbing, held the scene. Additional bodies were brought out singly by two, three and half dozens, followed by hurried examinations by physicians to see if a spark of life still remained. The dead were taken to Miners' hall where women and men knelt and wept beside them. The names of the dead were whispered through the crowds at the mine, and then there was more agonized waiting. Occasional women's screams broke the dreary, silent waiting. A dozen women fainted as they failed to recog-

HEAVY CHARGE KILLS EMPLOYEE OF VALLEY CO.

Almond Young Man of 23 is Victim of Tragedy at Street Corner

Death by electrocution while in the performance of duty near the top of a 30-foot pole at Church and Brawley streets at 10 a. m. Saturday, was the fate of Roy Hemal, 23, of Almond, an employee of the Wisconsin Valley Electric company. Twenty-three hundred volts charged through his body.

Efforts at resuscitation on the part of doctors, and members of the fire department who rushed the city pulmotor to the scene of the tragedy were futile. There were no signs of life from the start, and after an hour's work over the victim the body was removed to a local undertaking establishment.

Hemal, who had been in the employ of the Valley company for only 12 days, had climbed a pole at the street corner and was engaged in placing two sections of rubber hose over primary wires carrying the heavy voltage preparatory to climbing above them to cut off an unused top of the pole. He had put one section of the hose in place and was apparently ready to commence work on the other when he accidentally came in contact with the current. Not protected by rubber gloves upon his hands, the current charged through his body and he'd him in its grip.

Victim's Cry Heard

A cry from the victim as he received the electric charge, just before it destroyed consciousness, was heard by John Graf, a fellow lineman at work on the pavement below. Graf looked up and realized at once what had happened. He shouted for help and while other employees farther down on Brawley street ran to the spot, rushed to a nearby home and phoned the electric plant, where all city current was at once cut off.

Before the two other linemen started to mount the pole to free the victim and remove him to the ground, they noticed the body drop back as the current was cut off. The body remained suspended by the safety belt around the man's waist and pole until it was brought to the ground by the two workmen.

News of what had happened quickly spread about the neighborhood and to other parts of the city, and a crowd congregated at the spot, remaining while doctors worked over the body.

Warned Shortly Before

Other linemen at work near the Brawley street job said they had warned Hemal to exercise precaution in doing the job to which he was assigned when he met death. The rubber hose he was placing over the live wires was to protect him while he worked above in cutting off the top of the pole, a job not considered especially dangerous.

Leaves Wife and Child

Hemal has no relatives in Stevens Point but it was learned that his father and mother, as well as his wife and a small child, reside at Almond. A doctor in Almond village was notified of the tragedy and informed the family Saturday morning of the man's death.

Farmers and the Potato Show

"Portage county farmers aren't attending the potato show. They resent a big convention at this time, when money is spent to decorate the city, and speakers come here to talk about the potato, industry, because they are not getting enough for their potatoes to pay for growing them."

These statements, heard last week at the armory where the state potato show and convention was held, as well as on local streets, were perhaps prompted by a lack of true understanding of the facts more than by any other reason. The potato convention is an annual affair and because it happened to come to Stevens Point in a year of adverse market conditions, this should not condemn its activities or what it seeks to accomplish.

The personnel of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association should be sufficient to make explanation in its defense unnecessary. Composed largely of farmers who are presumably the most interested growers of potatoes in the state, the organization was formed and is conducted for the benefit of the industry. Membership is open to all, and for a nominal fee any farmer, whether an extensive grower or not, is welcome to affiliate with it and is at all times urged to do so.

Persons who expected the association at its convention here to solve the problem of marketing the biggest crop of potatoes in Wisconsin's history were disappointed. The association did not promise to do so and did not even attempt it. The marketing problem this year is an economic one beyond the power of a single association or club to solve. But it is certain that a great convention which brings together groups of men with a unified purpose does bring permanent and far-reaching benefit to the industry.

Objection to money spent for decorating the city is answered by Chamber of Commerce officials in the single statement: "The city paid for them." For the most part, all the money needed was raised among Stevens Point citizens who believe that any state convention cannot but be of great benefit to the city in which it is held. The item then, of money spent in this way, a debt assumed by the city, may be interpreted as one of the many things which is putting Stevens Point on the map as a live city, not only in Wisconsin, but even farther away.

If Stevens Point is favored with another state convention of potato growers it may come at a time when home growers are finding a ready market for their crop at prices satisfactory to all. Should this be the case, objection or protest is unlikely to be heard. Meantime the potato growers' association will continue to function and gain strength, directly and indirectly, helping growers, whether they are endorsing it or not.

All who visited the armory last week were convinced that the potato growers banded together in a state-wide organization are accomplishing much and that they have the interests of every potato grower at heart. Portage county farmers should not resent a potato convention because it comes at a time when prices are low and market movements sluggish. The fact that the state-wide meeting was awarded to Stevens Point, irrespective of what it accomplished, is a commendation to farmers of Portage county and central Wisconsin. It is something that they have made this part of the state the biggest potato belt in Wisconsin. While some are busy with the marketing of their crop this year, they will also benefit from the potato show, which is a choice.

True Detective Stories TRIANGULAR FLAW

THERE was no little doubt that Lord Herbert Laurence Sheffield belonged to the nobility as there was about his nationality—and that was apparent immediately from his monic and his spunk. Every shopkeeper along the Via Shida in Naples knew his lordship, and every one of them admitted that a more representative member of the British aristocracy had never visited Italy.

Lord Herbert was not only lavish with his money, but it was whispered around the Grand Hotel di Napoli that his daughter, Sylvia, soon was to be married to one of the richest men in England.

Therefore when the English nobleman wandered into the establishment of the largest jeweler in Naples some two months after his arrival in the city and asked to be shown some diamond necklaces, there was an immediate scurry to wait upon him. Finally the proprietor himself requested Lord Herbert to come into his private office while he took from the safe a necklace valued at 450,000 francs, the property of a client who was in financial straits.

"I would like to purchase something to give my daughter for a wedding present," explained the Englishman, and the jeweler nodded, for the rumors of the engagement had already reached his ears. "I'm afraid, though," continued his lordship, "that this necklace is a little more expensive than I can afford at the moment. I don't doubt its value, but I'll have to have a little time to think it over."

"Certainly," agreed the jeweler. "I will be pleased to hold it as long as you wish and, should you desire to see and examine it again, I will be very glad to bring it to the hotel at your convenience."

"That would be excellent," assented the visitor, "but I naturally do not wish my daughter to know anything about the transaction. The whole matter is to be a surprise to her."

A few days later, in response to Lord Sheffield's request, the jeweler took the necklace to the Grand Hotel and found the Englishman alone in the room. After a very careful examination of the diamonds terms were agreed upon and Lord Sheffield had just produced his letter of credit from his wallet when a girl's voice was heard in the corridor, just outside the door.

"My daughter!" exclaimed the Englishman. "She mustn't know anything about this," and he swept the necklace and the wallet into the drawer of the desk before which he sat. A moment later Sylvia Sheffield came in and announced that her father's tailor had arrived and wished to see him at once. Excusing himself with the statement that he would be back very shortly, Lord Herbert left the room and his daughter followed him immediately.

When half an hour had passed the jeweler began to wonder what was detaining his client, but he didn't worry in the least because his necklace and his lordship's wallet were there in the drawer of the desk, right under his hand. The transaction involved too much money to warrant any impatience, so it was not until two hours had slipped by before the jeweler rung for the hotel clerk and requested to know what was detaining Lord Sheffield.

"His lordship and Miss Sylvia left the hotel nearly two hours ago," was the reply. "They had received a cablegram from England."

Sensing that he had been robbed, the jeweler tugged at the drawer of the desk only to find that it was locked. But at a moment's examination of the desk room sufficed to show that the wall against which the desk was placed had been pierced and that the whole procedure had been a plot to lift the necklace and make a quick getaway.

Livid, both, one of the shrewdest detectives in Naples, was immediately placed in charge of the case and telegraphed to Rome to have the pair arrested. Sheffield, anticipating such a move, had planted two confederates in the capital, and by the time that the police had found that their ally was hounded the real criminals were well on their way northward. Then followed one of the longest chases in continental detective history.

MARSHFIELD WINS THE BIG EVENT OF PREP GAMES

Team Shows Strength In Tackling Contest From Antigo Squad

Team Standings

Team	W	L	T	Aver.
Wausau	5	0	1	1.000
Stevens Point	3	0	1	1.000
Wisconsin Rapids	3	2	0	.600
Marshfield	2	2	0	.500
Antigo	2	3	0	.400
Rhinecland	1	3	0	.250
Tomahawk	1	3	0	.250
Merrill	1	5	0	.167

There were several developments in prep school football in the Wisconsin river valley last Saturday which are encouraging to local followers of the sport.

The outstanding gridiron event was the victory of Marshfield over Antigo by a score of 20 to 0. Outplaying Antigo from the very start on her own field, Marshfield displayed a class which Wausau failed to display against the same team. The lumberjacks defeated Antigo by a 13 to 0 score, and had to battle every inch of the way to do it.

Week's Big Tilt

That the Wausau Marshfield game will be the supreme battle of the valley on Saturday, is evident. Wausau must win this game to stay in the top position in the conference. One defeat will eliminate it from the race and if Stevens Point wins from Antigo, then the Point will have the title unquestionably in its possession.

The Point, however, must beat Antigo. Antigo will come here on Saturday with plenty of fight. Stevens Point hasn't dropped a game to a valley team this season, and being considered as a state championship contender, it would be pretty poor business if the local players would allow a second-rate aggregation to come here and tip over the dope pot. The victory over Antigo will not be handed Stevens Point on a silver platter, and the Point preps should go ahead this week in their practice with that idea in mind. A stinging defeat handed to Antigo will give Stevens Point a better rating in the conference and in the state race, which it needs.

Play Neutral Game

If Stevens Point and Wausau both win their games Saturday, a contest to decide the valley title will be necessary, to be played on some neutral field. As Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids are the closest cities in this section, the gridirons there ought to be chosen. Mayor Roenius of Wisconsin Rapids issued an invitation to have the game played on the Rapids field at a Rotary meeting here a week ago, and the invitation was received with favorable comment. Stevens Point, it is believed, would be satisfied with the Rapids field, as it is certain that the proximity of the city would allow many local fans to attend the game, and as interest in valley football is keen, a big crowd of Rapids fans would also turn out. The game, it played either at Marshfield or Wisconsin Rapids, will draw a big crowd of fans.

Wausau's 23 to 0 victory over Merrill, which again raises the high tide of scores under which Merrill is being steadily buried, means little. Merrill, according to those who saw the game, displayed little spirit, and took the defeat as a matter of course. Wausau will meet a different brand of playing at Marshfield.

Fail to Raise Rating

La Crosse's victory over Wisconsin Rapids, expected by everyone, did little to raise the victor's rating in the state championship race. Wisconsin Rapids had already received two defeats at the hands of Wisconsin valley conference leaders, definitely putting it out of the race. The defeat, also, it is admitted, did not show the strength of the teams, and La Crosse's mentor admitted that the squads were more evenly matched than the score indicated. Coach Swetland of the local Normal, who refereed the game and probably saw the playing better than any other individual on the field, declared that a game between Stevens Point and La Crosse would make a close battle in which the Point would have the edge.

Merrill was dropped into last place in the conference standings by its defeat Saturday and Tomahawk's 19 to 13 win over Rhinecland.

VALLEY OF MARSHFIELD REAL ESTATE IS LOWER

The tax report revised and compiled by the board of review and city assessors at Marshfield places the total value of Marshfield real estate at $400,000, or $400,000 less than the valuation for 1921. The decrease is the result of a 25 per cent decrease in farm property valuation, according to the Marshfield News.

A NOBLE ENGLISH VAMPIRE.

THREE of England's dukes are direct descendants of Frances Howard, born in 1583, and one of the few English women who may be truly called vampires. Her father was the earl of Suffolk, and at the age of thirteen he married her to the earl of Essex, a year older. But she did not live with him until 1611, though in the meantime she had become mistress to the earl of Somerset, favorite of King James I.

Frances dabbled with soothsayers and one of these, a Mrs. Turner, got into trouble. She made it known that Frances had considered poisoning her husband, whom she hated. The matter wasushed up and Frances procured annulment of her wedding ties. Then she promptly married the earl of Somerset. Sir Thomas Overby, the earl's friend, earned her undying hatred by opposing the match. Frances schemed to have him imprisoned in the tower of London. Then she set out to poison him. Sir Thomas was aware of the plot against his life and took antidotes which offset the poisons given to him in food. So strong was his constitution that it seemed he never would die. But finally the end came. Then new honors were showered upon Frances and her husband. Despite this, retribution was near. A new favorite arose at court, the ugly stories of Overby's end were whispered everywhere. Weston, the keeper who had been responsible for the death of Overby, was arrested and confessed. He was hanged, then Sir Gervase Hely, lieutenant of the tower, met the same fate. Mrs. Turner, who had a hand in the plot, also went to the scaffold, along with the apothecary who mixed the poisons.

The earl of Somerset and Frances were tried and condemned. It seemed that both were to pay the heaviest price which the law could exact, but the power of their families finally won a pardon for them, and although their estates were confiscated, each received a pension and the right to life, when four of the lesser guilty ones had been executed. They were forbidden to stay in London and made to fix their residence at a country place. Perhaps this was the severest penalty that could have been inflicted for Frances grew to hate the man whom she had loved with such infatuation, and he saw in her only the instrument of his disgrace and the tool of fate which had led to the murder of his friend. The last years of Frances were filled with tragedy and remorse. She died at thirty-nine, leaving an infamous memory behind her.

BADGERS AND ILLINI NOW BITTER RIVALS

Homecoming Game at Madison Saturday to be Affair of Intense Competition

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—With even more intense rivalry stirred up by the recent clash of Wisconsin and Illinois athletic departments over the eligibility of players, Wisconsin and Illinois teams will take the field at Camp Randall with blood in their eyes.

The Badgers are bitter over the recent trouble with Illinois. They demonstrated their fighting ability against the Gophers, and have a reserve of strength that will be let loose against Illinois at the homecoming Saturday. Thousands of old grads will be back to see what the team they place their confidence in, can do to the Sackers in return for their arraignment of Wisconsin through the press.

The protest of Murry, regular Badger tackle, by Illinois has created a bitter grudge between the two schools, and everyone here expects that no strength will be spared by Wisconsin in the clash at Camp Randall on Saturday. The Badgers want to give Illinois something to think about.

Last Saturday against Minnesota, Wisconsin showed what it could do. Captain Williams raced around the Minnesota end for long gains, and it was his ability to evade most of the Minnesota team that brought the Badgers their second touchdown. The forward passing of Quarterback Barr was remarkable because of the wet ball that had to be handled. His toss to Telleb in the third quarter was picked off by a speedy Badger end who fought his way over the goal line for the first Wisconsin touchdown. Telleb kicked four goals for Wisconsin.

Smith, who took Murry's place at tackle, put on a fighting game that caused trouble for Minnesota. Time and again he saw Martineau, their star halfback, suffer long losses. Taft, a fullback for Wisconsin, far outkicked Martineau.

Wisconsin feels that it can decisively defeat Illinois this Saturday and that will draw its attention to the Michigan game two weeks hence. This contest will be a more likely settle the conference championship which the Badgers are now coveting.

CHAMBER TO DEVOTE EVENING TO SUBJECT OF CONCRETE ON 18

Announce Public Meeting for November 16 When Representative of Yellowstone Trail Will Be Here

The proposed concreting of state trunk highway No. 18 from Stevens Point to Amherst will be the subject under discussion at a meeting of the membership forum of the Chamber of Commerce, to be held at the Elks' club rooms November 16.

H. O. Cooley, executive secretary of the Yellowstone Trail association, will come to Stevens Point to address the meeting. The Yellowstone trail follows Road 18 in this part of the state and the trail officials, always alert to boost highway improvement programs, will not be unrepresented when the proposed concrete program for Portage county comes up.

The Chamber of Commerce extends an invitation not only to residents of Stevens Point to be present at the meeting, but to all residents of Portage county who are interested in the subject to be talked over. Opportunity will be given for them to voice their opinions on the proposition, either favoring it or opposed.

RED CROSS OFFERS SUMMARY OF WORK

Five Months of Active Service Show Many Things Accomplished in the County

With the office of executive secretary of the Portage county chapter of the Red Cross vacant from January until June, the report covering the months from June to November shows Miss Laura E. Porter, the present secretary, to have been actively engaged on the Red Cross program.

Ex-service men from Portage county, numbering 121, have had their claims attended to, the majority in regard to compensation, but many about hospitalization, vocational training of federal actions.

To attend to these properly has necessitated 494 interviews, 139 letters and the making of 32 affidavits. Thirteen cases of civilian service have at last received attention, ranging from the purchase of clothing and milk lunches for needy cases, to the securing of assignments to tubercular sanatoriums. A great deal of time and effort were required to properly handle this phase of the work.

Several interesting features have received attention during the past few months. Junior Red Cross activities were begun with a tea to Portage county teachers during the visit of Miss Esther Bjoland in July. Miss Bjoland was in the city to lecture at the Normal on Junior Red Cross.

The end of October showed the city schools of Stevens Point enrolled 100 per cent in Junior Red Cross, and splendid reports coming in from the county. Junior Red Cross Christmas boxes have already started with their message of good cheer to the less fortunate children of Europe.

The rest tent at the fair has come to be an annual Red Cross institution, and was successfully carried on this year with the assistance of 30 volunteer workers. By the sale of button-hole bouquets, the expenses connected with operating the rest tent were almost entirely defrayed.

During the clinics held by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association both here and at Amherst, the Red Cross heartily cooperated. Miss Porter devoting her entire time to the undertaking.

To the work in the county, Miss Porter has given wholeheartedly of her time and interest. Being especially anxious to coordinate the work of the Portage county chapter, the auxiliary branches have had a prominent place in her program. Miss Porter spends a day each week in various sections of the county, with headquarters at Amherst, Almond, Roshto and Junction City.

With the wealth of material offered by the peace-time program of the Red Cross, it is possible for each community to develop along the lines that especially merit its needs or interest. To help aid the work of the community is one of the big undertakings facing the executive secretary in the coming year.

The annual meeting is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, December 10, and it is hoped it will be well attended.

AUBURNDALE HOTEL MAN IN CAR TIPOVER

Joseph Baird Injured on Road Near Mosinee When Machine Plunges Into Ditch

Joseph Baird, proprietor of the Baird Hotel at Auburndale, is in St. Joseph's hospital at Marshfield suffering from several bruises about his head, received Sunday in an auto accident when a car which he was driving overturned and went into a ditch.

The accident occurred a mile west of Mosinee. Baird and Joseph Cooninger, also of Auburndale, who was accompanying him, were pinned beneath the car for several minutes before passing motorists succeeded in freeing them. The injured men were then taken to Mosinee and given medical attention, Baird later being removed to the hospital at Marshfield. Cooninger's injuries were found to be of no serious nature.

Baird is said to have signalled several times to a car ahead of him that he wanted to pass. Not given room enough to get by he was forced into a ditch but succeeded in getting ahead of the other machine. As he was driving out of the depression another car approached, forcing him to return to the edge of the incline. The wheels skidded and caused the car to overturn twice and plunge into the ditch. Damage to the automobile was said to have been confined to the top.

Have Played for Championships in Other Cities Long Enough is the Claim

Superior, Wis., Nov. 7.—The management of the Superior Central high school football team will present to the officials of the Wisconsin Inter-scholastic Athletic association a formal request to stage the 1923 high school championship game in Superior, according to an announcement today by Coach Fred F. Carson.

"Superior has waited six years," said Coach Carson today. "The local school has sent its football team to Eau Claire, La Crosse, Antigo, Madison and Marinette for championship games. It is about time that Superior be given some consideration in the matter. Though champions the Superior team bowed to Marinette

"It looks as though Marinette expects to be in the finals but plan to duck a trip to Superior. Marinette doesn't have to go to Toledo to get worthy competition. Superior and several other Wisconsin teams can give it to them."

CROWN QUEENS FROM WAUPACA AND THIS CITY

Evolution of Marketing in Central Wisconsin Vividly Portrayed

A monster potato parade, claimed to be the only one of kind and size ever attempted in the state, was held in Stevens Point Wednesday as a feature of the 10th annual convention of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association.

The parade was an elaborate affair and represented the result of weeks of effort on the part of local committees which worked under direction of the Chamber of Commerce. Inclement weather failed to mar its success, showers holding off while it was in motion in business and residential streets.

Evolution Portrayed

The evolution of potato transportation in central Wisconsin was vividly portrayed in a special section displaying the primitive methods of hauling when a team of oxen and wagon were used, a later improvement showing the horse drawn wagon and finally the modern truck.

Two mayors of two central Wisconsin cities and two potato queens were seated in a carriage pulled by a team of horses driven by Lon Myers at the head of the parade. They were Mayor J. N. Welsby of Stevens Point, Miss Florence Kubisak, local potato queen, Mayor Paronto of Waupaca and Miss Alice Dydball, potato queen of Waupaca county.

Queens are Crowned

When the queens' equipage reached the corner of Main street and Strong's avenue the procession was halted while an armed guard dismounted and proceeded to the carriage, opening its doors and assisting the two queens and their respective mayors to alight. With due formality they then proceeded to one side of the carriage, where each queen knelt on a rug placed there for her, and where each was crowned potato queen of their respective counties. The coronation was performed by F. M. Glennon, representing the Chamber of Commerce, who also presented the Waupaca queen with a suitable gift from the Waupaca County potato shippers. The local queen was then presented with $25 in gold. The queens were reseated in the carriage and the procession then again got under way.

Andy Gump a Feature

Another big feature of the parade was a float carrying Andy Gump, Min and Chester, cartoon characters, impersonated by Raymond Boone, Michael Liss, and Leander Van Hecke respectively. When the post office was reached the parade was again stopped long enough to permit Andy to deliver a campaign speech in the interests of his candidacy for congress. The truck carrying these characters was placarded with reproductions of well known caricatures from the pen of Sidney Smith, creator of the Gumps.

Other sections of the parade included members of the common council smoking corn-cob pipes and seated on a hayrack drawn by a span of white mules. Battery B and the Combat train of the Wisconsin National Guard; Boy Scouts carrying a huge American flag; Weber's band and the Consolidated band; 25 trucks carrying potatoes, a big delegation from the local lodge of Moose carrying potato forks; mammoth imitation potatoes standing seven and one-half feet in height loaded into big trucks, each being worn by a member of the Normal football team, adding to the comical included in the parade; a splendid representation of children from all local schools and a few rural schools which had made elaborate preparations for their part in the parade. The Lincoln school delegation was the largest, with dozens of boys and girls dressed in potato sacks. Individual activities of the children included cutting the eyes from potatoes and paring them.

A big float representing Badger Inn, the eating house at the fair grounds conducted by the Methodist ladies, featured two girls cutting potato chips and tossing them to the crowds. Earl Wilson had charge of the big parade and its success is due largely to himself and 25 co-workers, together with the cooperation tendered by citizens at large.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR TWO DEPARTED

The Late Mrs. Culver and Miss Martha Week Long Active Members of Organization

On Thursday evening the Progress club met at the home of Miss Arnott, with Mrs. McGlavin serving as hostess. As the late Mrs. G. E. Culver and Miss Martha Week had both been active members of the club for 15 or 20 years, it was thought only fitting that the club should mark in some way the loss that has been suffered in the death of these two women. And so Thursday night's meeting took the form of a memorial service under the direction of Mrs. E. B. Robertson, president.

Mrs. McGlavin reviewed Miss Week's life, going back to her girlhood days, spent in the pioneer home of her parents on the Big Eau Pleine river. She told of her college life and of the tender friendships and relationships of her later years. Miss Week was an ardent lover of California, but with all that she was ever loyal to her old home in Stevens Point. In like manner Mrs. Culver was paid loving tribute by her life long friend, Mrs. J. V. Collins. In reviewing Mrs. Culver's life it would seem that there had been hardly any worth while undertakings started, whether civic, literary, religious or charitable, that did not have her enthusiastic interest and capable support. Not only as an unselfish and intelligent citizen, but as a neighbor, and above all, as a wife and mother, Mrs. Culver will always be affectionately remembered by all the fortunate ones who knew her best, Mrs. Collins said.

In the death of these two members the Progress club feels it has sustained an irreparable loss and a committee composed of Miss Arnott and Mrs. E. T. Smith presented resolutions to the club expressing that feeling, copies of which were to be sent to Professor Culver and to the Week family.

Some musical numbers and two well chosen readings by Mrs. C. F. Watson concluded the memorial service.

DIES OF LOCKJAW

Eau Pleine Woman Succumbs After Illness of Two Days

Death from tetanus or lockjaw, following a two days' affliction with this terrible ailment, was the fate of Mrs. Mildred Williams, whose home was in Eau Pleine town, a short distance southeast of Dancy postoffice. Mrs. Williams' maiden name was Ida Zimmerman, daughter of the late Fred Zimmerman, for many years a prominent farmer near Junction City. She was 34 years of age the 17th of last July.

Surviving members of her immediate family are the widower and three children, ranging in age from eight to two years. She also leaves one aged mother and six brothers. PAYMENT OF $2,300 FOR FIRE ON FARM

Owner Gets Insurance Money But Tenant Loses Out Because of Delinquent Premium

Frank Polly, owner of the farm in Buena Vista on which practically all the buildings were destroyed by fire recently, carried insurance of $2,300 in the Stockton Insurance company and will receive a check for this amount as soon as the adjustment is completed. This represents about 50 per cent of his loss, the property destroyed being valued at $5,000. Besides the house, barn and several small structures, a considerable amount of hay, potatoes, and other farm products fell prey to the flames. Children playing with matches near a straw stack is said to have caused the damage.

Frank Dreva, lessee of the farm, lost most of his household goods and this year's crops. He carried a policy for $300 in the Stockton company, but because of his alleged neglect in paying assessments or premiums his insurance is void.

COLLISION ON 18 TWO CARS DAMAGED

Autos of Joseph Somers of Amherst Junction and Dr. A. J. Breckell of Point in Crash

Two cars were damaged, but luckily no one was injured, in a collision on highway 18 two miles east of Custer at 6:15 o'clock Saturday evening.

The cars which crashed together were being driven by Dr. A. J. Breckell of Stevens Point and Joseph Somers, who lives a short distance west of Amherst Junction. In the Breckell car besides Dr. Breckell were his wife, M. L. Gordon and daughter, Miss Gladys.

The Breckell machine was being driven to Nelsonville, where occupants were to attend a church fair and supper at the Nelsonville Lutheran church and at which Mr. Gordon was to serve as an auctioneer. The Somers machine was being piloted toward Stevens Point.

A front wheel was broken off each of the machines when they collided, and in addition, the front axle was bent, fender ruined and radiator damaged on the Breckell machine. Besides the loss of the front wheel on the Somers machine, a fender was crumpled and other minor damage was done.

After the collision, Mr. Gordon rode back to Stevens Point with a passing autoist, and came back with his machine, in which the party continued on to Nelsonville, after making arrangements for the repair of the Breckell car.

NEED NOT COMPLETE OLD SENTENCE, RULING

Ruling in the case of Thomas Tomczyk, former Wisconsin Rapids insurance man, who was sentenced to five years in Waupun last winter for passing a forged note at a Rapids bank, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general held that a prisoner who is paroled and during his parole commits another crime, cannot be compelled to serve the remainder of his first sentence when his second extends beyond the expiration of the original term.

Tomczyk, who was arrested after a search conducted by Chief of Police R. S. Payne of the Rapids which covered much of northern Wisconsin, had been freed on parole in 1921 after serving two years of a previous five year sentence for forgery. There was some discussion at the time as to the advisability of returning him to the house of correction to finish out his original sentence before trying him on the new count but it was finally decided to proceed on the second charge and Tomczyk was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary.

Under the terms of the assistant attorney general he will be freed at the end of his five year term and it will be impossible to force him to serve out his previous sentence.

AMHERST SUFFERING FROM CAR SHORTAGE

Potato Buyers There Unable to Buy More as Warehouses are Filled

Amherst potato buyers are seriously affected by a car shortage on the Soo line, and buyers have on hand large stocks of potatoes which they are unable to get rid of.

The situation is critical so far as Amherst is concerned, as warehouses are loaded to capacity and farmers have potatoes stored in all available space. There is a demand, but no shipping facilities.

The P. N. Peterson warehouse at Amherst reports that only five cars were shipped from that company during October, while in previous years the normal number would have been fifty or sixty. Other buyers there, it is reported, are as seriously affected by the lack of cars.

STATE IS WATCHING THE NINTH DISTRICT

Result of Hottest Congressional Campaign in History to be Known Wednesday

All Wisconsin, and to a large extent, the entire nation will look toward the Ninth congressional district on Wednesday when the result of the hottest political campaign in the history of the state becomes known. Starting long before the primary, the battle has been carried into every home in the district. Speakers have invaded nearly every hamlet and the air has been filled with oratory and sometimes with acrimony.

Supporters of Judge Henry Grasse, independent candidate, and George J. Schneider, regular Republican nominee, are confident of success as the campaign ends. Their claims conflict considerably, both deeming they will carry the same counties.

The sharpest fight has been in Outagamie, Door and Kewaunee counties. Outagamie county is a recognized Schneider stronghold while Door and Kewaunee counties have been largely for Grasse. A determined fight also was waged in Brown county and both factions are claiming victories there.

Never before has there been so much bitter passion as this year. Nearly every precinct in Outagamie county has taken sides in the Grasse-Schneider battle. In argument it has become as hot as the sun.

Police Grasse early in the campaign attracted his supporters that they might not resort to attacks on his opponent's supporters. With the election the manager must be content to let the Grasse and Schneider forces fight it out in the polls.

Grasse has been successful in any number of places and has a fair chance of carrying the district. Schneider has been successful in many places and has a fair chance of carrying the district.

James Beesley

James Beesley, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Beesley, came to Waupaca county nearly three quarters of a century ago and in whose honor one of the Chain of Lakes is named, passed away at his home on Strong's avenue this city, at 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Beesley had been in poor health for upward of 20 years, but his condition did not become serious until a few months ago, and for a couple of weeks he suffered intensely.

Born in Wales 75 years ago the 25th of last June, he was brought to America when two years of age. The family lived for a short time in New York state and then came to what was regarded as the far west, Waupaca county, locating on a tract of land near what is now known as Beesley lake.

James Beesley grew to young manhood there, attending the district and Waupaca city schools and later took a business college course in Milwaukee. Moving to Eau Claire, this county, in the early 80's, he was married there on New Year's day 1882, to Mrs. C. P. Humphrey. For a period of 12 years, Mr. Beesley was associated with logging business, later operating a farm and continuing this latter vocation until he sold the property in April 1902. Mr. and Mrs. Beesley had since been residents of this city.

The deceased had been an active member of St. Paul's M. E. church and was also affiliated with the Shantre lodge of Odd Fellows, serving the latter organization in various official capacities. He was scrupulously honest and held in highest esteem of all who knew him.

Surviving are his widow and one sister, Mrs. Wesley Minor, of Waupaca Veterans' Home. The latter has been blind for several years.

Funeral services were held at St. Paul's Methodist church Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with interment in Forest cemetery.

Funeral services for the deceased were held at St. Mary's church, Florence, at 9 o'clock Monday morning. Rev. J. Chyniski officiating. Hundreds of friends attended the services and accompanied the remains to their last resting place in the parish cemetery.

E. church and thence to Forest cemetery for interment. The choir, headed by all fellow members of St. Paul's in Shantre lodge of Odd Fellows, were M. E. Bruce, C. W. Smith, T. O. Holsen, Alvin Pike, J. D. Swan and Rupert Wagon.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

I.—DELAWARE

TO DELETE the honor of being the first of the original thirteen states.

December 7, 1787, it officially adopted the Constitution and thus was made a beginning of our present Federal government. According to the seventh article of the Constitution, however, it was necessary for nine states to ratify it before it actually came into force. So it was not until the following June, by which time eight other states had accepted the Constitution, that the United States of America actually came into being.

The early history of Delaware was a varied one. It started in 1638 when a small party of Swedes settled at the mouth of the Delaware river and called it New Sweden. In 1655, Peter Stuyvesant, the governor of the Dutch colony of New Netherlands, annexed this territory. But it did not long remain Dutch, for in 1664 the English took possession. When Pennsylvania was deeded to William Penn the desired access to the seacoast and at his urgent request Delaware was transferred to Penn's proprietorship. From the beginning of the eighteenth century, however, Delaware had its separate legislature, and at the time of the Revolution it became an independent state.

Delaware is next to the smallest of our states, having an area of only 2,370 square miles. Its participation in presidential elections is limited to three electors. This is arranged according to population. Each state is entitled to the same number of presidential electors as it has members of congress, so the influence of the different states in voting for the President varies from Delaware's three electors to New York's 45.

As to the derivation of the name Delaware, this was appropriately given to the state from the river, which in turn was named after the bay and the bay was called Delaware in honor of Lord Delaware, who was governor of the Virginia colony in 1610.

LAYING HEAVY RAILS

Soo Line Making Improvements on Cranston-Appleton Branch

That the Soo line intends to make the Cranston-Appleton branch, formerly the Wisconsin Northern railroad, an important short cut to Chicago for its northern traffic is evidenced by the fact that a work train has commenced distributing heavier steel along its route of way from Appleton north. It is understood at Appleton that the present ties are to be replaced to make it possible for the road to operate its heavy trains by way of Appleton.

BURNING UP A BILL

WILD MAN IS ARRESTED

Chicago, Nov. 7.—John Sorrenti, 33, alleged pyromaniac, responsible for over 30 incendiary fires here the last month, was held by police today. Sorrenti was arrested when police saw him setting a $10 bill with a cigarette. "I want to see things burn," Sorrenti said.

SPECIAL CONGRESS SESSION

TO BE CALLED FOR 20th

Washington, Nov. 7.—Congress will be called into session November 14, as indicated today at the White House. President Harding is expected to call Thursday or Friday, as was stated. One of the reasons for this call on the war emergency departments.

SUPREME JUSTICE PITNEY

TO DESIGN THIS MONTH

Washington, Nov. 7.—Associate Justice Pitney of the United States supreme court has resigned from the bench. The resignation was announced today. The resignation was said to be the result of contemplated retirement.

When England Had No Dukes

The duke of Norfolk was brought to the block in 1552, and in him perished the last surviving English duke. For more than half a century England had to do its best—defeat the Spanish arm, conquer Ireland, circumnavigate the globe, lay the foundations of the British empire—without any ducal assistance. From Pollard's "History of England."

TURKS INFLICT FURTHER INSULT UPON THE ALLIES

Levy Tariff on Allied Goods and Draw Dead Line for British

Constantinople, Turkey, Nov. 7.—Panic reigned in foreign quarters of Constantinople today as the Turks' national military forces advanced close to the harbor were barricade of the British forces at Chanak.

The Kemalists saved notice that the British would not be allowed to advance beyond the three-mile neutral limit. General Harrington, British commander, promptly entered a sharp protest to Ismet Pasha, Turk commander, following this maneuver.

British Soldiers Stabbed

Disorder accompanied the panic in Constantinople. Coincidentally with the city seizure by Kemal civil authorities and the menacing attitude of the Moslem military, four British soldiers were stabbed in street fighting. The Greeks fled toward Salonica, fearing unprecedented massacres.

Apply Tariff Laws

Constantinople, Turkey, Nov. 7.—Turkish Nationalists further violated the Mudania armistice agreement today by attempting to enforce new tariff laws at Constantinople. Last night they closed the customs house, preparatory to making the proposed new schedule effective today.

Allied Merchants Protest

A storm of protest from citizens of the Allied countries doing business in Constantinople was aroused by this move. The Mudania agreement guarantees the maintenance of the status quo, as far as tariff rates were concerned, until peace was signed.

Will Use Straits

The Allied commissioners flatly refused the Turkish demand that foreign warships keep out of the straits unless they have permission from the new nationalist government.

The situation is regarded as critical and Allied troops are constantly in readiness to suppress the first signs of outbreaks.

Foch Called In

Paris, France, Nov. 7.—Marshal Foch, Allied war time commander in chief, was summoned by Premier Poincare today to consider military plans today should the Turks violate the Mudania agreement. A cabinet meeting was also held to consider the inflammable near eastern situation again brought to a crisis by seizure of Constantinople by the Turkish Nationalists civil authorities.

Can Stop Them

Foch, considering the necessity of possible military action, is understood to have maintained to Poincare that it would be comparatively easy for the Allies to stop Mustafa Kemal's men should they attempt to cross toward Thrace as threatened.

To Take No Bluff

London, Nov. 7.—The Allied governments today instructed their high commissioners at Constantinople to oppose the Turkish threat to violate the Mudania agreement "with force if necessary."

The foreign office let it be known that Britain will not in any way capitulate to Mustafa Kemal's demand. It is believed possible that Kemal is merely bluffing.

Boishevists Suspected

London, Nov. 7.—The war office today prepared to rush reinforcements to the near east, while diplomatic circles hinted at the hidden hand of Russian bolshevism behind Mustafa Kemal's move.

Dispatches from Moscow and Petrograd show that the demand of the Russian and Ankara governments are identical as to passage of Allied naval vessels through the straits and suppression of capitulations. Official circles in London, Paris and Rome presented a solid front against the Turks.

Ancient Welsh Customs.

The Welsh girl gives her lover a birchen branch as a token that she accepts him. In Wales, too, the Maypole about which the villagers danced and played joyous games was always a birch. Thus the "betwen" was a permanent feature of the village green, and the greatest game of all was to steal the bedwen. This, when accomplished, was celebrated with peculiar festivities. Possibly out of these midnight marauding expeditions and their accompanying festivities came the superstition that on Walpurgis night—the eve of May day—witches and warlocks held high carnival.
